HAYES SUITS VS. STATE

Attorney - General Anderson About to Prepare Briefs.

BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Highest Court of the Nation to Settle Finally the Validity of the New Constitution-Chief Justice Fuller's Mind Already Made Up.

Attorney-General Anderson, who has been resting and recuperating at his at Lexington for the past month or will in a day or two begin the preparation of briefs in several very important State cases before the Supreme Court of the United States, which will submitted to that august tribunal in October. He will be assisted in this work for Lexington to-day for the purpose for Lexington to-daly for the purpose. Colonel Robert Callett, who has been in Lexington for a fortnight, will return to the city to-day, and will have charge of the routine work of the office during the absence of his chief.

Perhaps the most important suit, and certainly the one of greatest public interest in which a brief is to be prepared by the Attorney-General, is that one designed to test the validity and constitutionality of the new suffrage law of the State of Virginia. These are the cases (for there are really two involving the same issue) in which Captain John S. Wise, of New York, appeared in the Circuit Court of the United States in this city last summer, and in which he was associated with James H. Hayes, a local negro lawyer. The two will be associated before the Supreme Court of the United States. Attorney-General Anderson will represent the State Board of Canvassers, the ostensible defendant in the case.

THE TWO CASES.

States. Attorney-General Anderson will represent the State Board of Canvassers, the ostensible defendant in the case.

THE TWO CASES.

One of the two cases is that styled Selden et al. vs. the Virginia State Board of Canvassers, a reuit in equity seeking to enjoin and restrain the State Board of Canvassers from awarding certificates of election to the ten Congressmen chosen in this State lift November, 1902.

The other, and compunion case, seeks to accomplish the same result by a different legal procedure. It is styled Jones et al. vs. the Virginia State Board of Canvassers, an action at law, in which the plaintiffs ask the court to grant a writ of prohibition restraining the State Board of Canvassers, an action at law, in which the plaintiffs ask the court to grant a writ of prohibition restraining the State Board of Canvassers. The same attorneys will appear in both cases.

The appeal in these cases is regarded as merely formal, the Circuit Court, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, sitting with Judge Edmund Waddill, having refused both writs prayed for by plaintiffs.

Justice Melville W. Fuller, sitting with judge Edmund Waddill, having refused both writs prayed for by plaintiffs.

When these cases unexpectedly came up during the absence of Attorney-General Anderson, and while he was in feeble health, the Commonwealth retained Mr. Frank W. Christian, a distinguished attorney of this city, to supplement the Attorney-General in defending the interests of the Commonwealth and its Board of Canyassers. Attorney-General Anderson, however, die much work in preparing for the case, and will probably represent the State without assistance when the case come before the highest court of the land.

The cases were decided on the ground that the Federal courts had no jurisdiction when the case came before the court here. It remains to be seen whether the full court will adfirm the opinion handed down in the case, and in which opinion

n in the case, and in which opinion distinguished chief justice acquiesce

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS IN THE COAL REGION

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BLUEFIELD, W. VA., Aug. II.—William Adams, aged sixten years, was silled in the mines of the Mill Creek Coal Company, at Cooper's, yesterday by huge block of coal falling upon him. 30th legs were broken and his skull nashed.

Both legs were broken and his skull mashed.

J. M. Howell, formerly of Roanoke, was killed in the mines at Eckman by falling slate. He was married, and leaves a wife and three small children.

George Kitts and son, James Kitts, were struck by a freight train on a bridge between Keystone and Burke. They had been to Keystone to purchase goods and were caught on the bridge, beavily laden with packages, and had no chance for escape. The men were carried back to Keystone, where George Kitts died in a few hours afterwards.

James Kitts was frightfully mangled, his backbone broken and otherwise injured. He will die. Both resided in Tazewell county. A Hungarlan miner was killed yesterday in the mines of the Empire Coal Company, at Vivian, by failing slate.

NATIONAL BANKS VS. THE STATE

The Financial Institutions in Lynchburg in an Important Sult Against the State.

Among the most Interesting cases to come up for consideration before the Supreme Court of the United States at its fall session, none is of more interest to the public, and especially to the people of this State, than that of the Associated National Banks of the city of Lynchburg vs. the Auditor of Public Accounts of the State of Virginia. Attorney-General Anderson, representing the Auditor and the State, will begin work immediately on the preparation of his brief in this case. It is a very important one, involving the right of the Commonwealth to levy a tax on the shares of stock of national banks. right of the Commonwealth to levy a tax on the shares of stock of national banks. Aside from its importance from a legal standpoint, the issue is one of grave im-port to the State, for an adverse decision would deprive it of a considerable share would deprive it of a considerable share of its revenues.

The plaintiffs in this cause are the People's National Bank, the Lynchburg National Bank, the First National Bank of Lynchburg and the National Exchange Bank, of Lynchburg. They have pooled their interests and will make a united fight against the validity of the tax on shares of stock of national banks. A brilliant array of counsel will represent the benks: Blackford and Horsley, John H. Lewis and Son and Wilson and Manson, all of which firms stand high at the bar, will look after their interests. Attorney-General Anderson will meet them single-handed.

The suit originated in the Circuit Court of the Eastern District of Virginia, and was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States after the lower court the United States after the lower countain decided adversely to the contention of the plaintiffs. All the national banks of the State are peculiarly interested in the result, since each will share in the rruits of victory in the event that the bankers win. The case will come up in October or early in November.

Company vs. A. F. Stone, late treasurer of the county of Smyth, State of Virginia. The State had a claim for taxes against the Douglas Company, and the State court authorized the sheriff to make sale of company to satisfy its Hen. The appellants in this case thereupon raised the question whether or not said timber is can be seized therefor.

The suit was begun in the Circuit Court of Smyth county, Va., and upon adverse decision by that court the plaintin ap-realed to the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, which affirmed the judgment of the lower court. Thereupon the appel-lants took the case to the highest court of the land, the Supreme Court of the United States, Messrs, Paniel Trigg and J. H. Gilmore, of Abingdon, Va., repre-sent the appellants in the cause.
